

Queen's propolis ampoules

With royal jelly, propolis, hyaluronic acid, aloe vera, honey and beneficial plant-based oils

The highly concentrated ampoule treatment is the ideal supplement to the Queen's propolis cream. For all skin types which require moisture and perfect care, as the skin needs moisture and care in order to live. Water is a life elixir for the skin. Just a 5 percent reduction of the water content in the epidermis can lead to dryness and the formation of wrinkles.

Royal jelly, a natural miracle treatment, is essential for rearing of the queen bee. It contains many vitamins, above all from the B complex, protein elements, mineral substances and trace elements. Royal jelly makes the skin appear palpably softer and fresher.

Propolis, the glue for honey bees, has bactericidal, fungicidal and virostatic properties, supports the healing processes and regulates the skin flora.

Aloe vera protects and tightens the skin, and improves the skin metabolism and the oxygen absorption.

Honey is one of the classic active cosmetic ingredients. Even in ancient times, milk and honey were considered as the staples for beautifying substances. It is said that many beautiful women from past millennia have owed their appearance to, amongst other things, the effects of honey: particularly well-known is the Egyptian queen Cleopatra, who bathed every day in milk and honey. Honey binds moisture and cleans gently, clarifies and calms the skin and also features antibacterial properties. Honey contains many mild acids which are also contained naturally in our bodies. Because the pH value of our skin also lies in the slightly acidic range, honey contributes towards the reinforcement of the protective acid mantle.

Ceramides are natural components of the skin and support the important barrier functions of the skin against moisture loss.

Hyaluronic acid is a substance naturally found in the body which is responsible for the reinforcement of the skin's collagen fibres (skin strength) and the moisture bonding of the skin (skin firmness). It forms a thin, light-permeable, invisible but elastic film which retains the moisture on the surface of the skin. The film helps to preserve the most important properties of healthy skin such as suppleness, elasticity and firmness.

Jojoba, almond and carrot oil increase the suppleness of the skin, reduce wrinkles and prevent water loss through the skin.

The Queen's propolis ampoule treatment is ideal for the recovery of important skin moisture, making your skin look youthful again and reducing fine wrinkles.

Application: Use the Queen's propolis ampoule treatment once per day, preferably in the evening. After cleansing thoroughly, evenly apply to problem zones such as the face, neck and décolleté, and gently massage in.

The innovative shape of the pipette ampoules guarantees that the high quality ingredients contained are protected, but can still be easily and accurately dosed. One ampoule is enough for several applications and has very good coverage.
